REDUCTION OF NETWORK RETRIEVAL LATENCY USING CACHE AND DIGEST

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for comparing a digest value in an incoming response to a digest index (e.g., a hash table). The digest index includes digest values of data objects already cached at a cache. Data object retrieval is avoided when a match is found between the digest value and a digest value in the digest index.